

A question for Christians:

Are You Really Serving GOD?

A question for non-Christians:

Have You Checked Out GOD For Yourself?

To answer either question, we must consider other questions like:

What is life all about?

Does God exist?

What do biblical scholars, Christian historians, and others say, about the formation of the Christian Bible?

Is the Bible the inspired word of God?

Can I prove the credibility of the Bible for myself?

Does the Bible contradict itself?

Did Jesus, the man, have the "ability to sin" like Adam and Eve?

How do we know that the genealogy of Jesus in the Gospel of Luke is through Mary?

Did God create man through evolution?

Does the union of a sperm and an egg create human life?

When does human life begin?

Is variety the spice of life?

Should Christians worship God, under the leadership of a homosexual?

Are all questions valid and/or contextually appropriate?

Can God make a rock, so large that He cannot handle it?

How can I have "free will", if I did not choose to be born?

What is the only meaningful question, about "God" and "Christianity"?

How could God create man out of nothing?

(For additional questions, see the table of contents

and

a second book: "Last Call!!! [subtitled: 'Are You Still Serving God?']")

Pray and think about it!